Dr. Jen Moran-Kobes

WATER TOWER DENTAL CARE, HINSDALE DENTISTRY COSMETIC RESTORATIVE DENTIST

From a young age, Dr. Jen Moran-Kobes was equally captivated by science and art—a dual passion that found its home in dentistry. “It’s a career that blends precision with creativity,” she says. More than a professional path, dentistry also offered autonomy, the chance to lead a quality of life that made space for motherhood. Today, she’s a cosmetic restorative dentist practicing at both Water Tower Dental Care and Hinsdale Dentistry.

“True esthetic dentistry restores more than smiles—it restores confidence,” she says. “I’m here to help patients look and feel like the best version of themselves.”

In 2019, Dr. Moran-Kobes was diagnosed with breast cancer; after six months of treatment at the Mayo Clinic, she entered remission. The experience shifted her perspective and sharpened her purpose. She returned to dentistry with fierce determination—even retaking all of her boards. She is grateful to Water Tower Dental Care for welcoming her back, and to Hinsdale Dentistry for offering Dr. Moran-Kobes a fresh chapter following the passing of cosmetic pioneer Dr. Peter Harnois. “I now work more than ever and feel profoundly fulfilled to be doing what I love,” she adds.

Dr. Moran-Kobes is a Dynamic Woman authentically and unapologetically. “Earlier in life, I defined success by ambition. Now I value alignment, joy and the courage of reinvention,” she says. Her mother and grandmother are to thank for that foundation, as are her fellow female leaders, friends and mentors who embody resilience and realness.

This Dynamic Woman sees the shift in dentistry, as today’s student population is more than 60% female, in stark contrast to the 3% of dentists in her day. Outside her practice, she supports the Hinsdale Food Pantry, Humane Society and her local Women’s Group.
